

Satellite radio is a private subscription service. Neither the NAB nor the government should have anything to say about the content provided by satellite radio. It is especially galling that the NAB is pressuring the government to restrict XM Radio from providing useful and desirable content to its private subscribers. Any such effort is just wrong.

Satellite radio is superior in every regard to over-the-air radio. It 's the wave of the future. Get used to it. Make friends with satellite radio. Soon enough, you're going to need it more than it needs you.

I want my XM Radio.
